

Papakū Makawalu
Presents an Advanced KUMULIPO

Aloha Hou iā 'Oukou e nā Hoa Hua'i o nā 'Ike Hohonu!

Papakū Makawalu is set for January 20-21, 2018 and February 17-18, 2018.

The January workshop will be for those who have not attended a Papakū Makawalu workshop before and for those who have attended a few times and need more information on the process and the product presented.

The February workshop is for advanced Makawaluanos who want to eventually teach the process. A letter will be forthcoming for you before the end of the year.

The January workshop will focus on the Kumulipo because it contains foundational information for Hawaiians and residents of Hawai'i. This information includes tangible life forms of our islands. The Kumulipo basically concerns Papahānaumoku and all organisms born in these islands. Things you may or may not be familiar with, though they are our neighbors.

Papahānaumoku will begin with wā 'akahi (chapter 1), wā 'alua (2), and wā 'akolu (3); they will then lele, leap, jump to wā walu (8), wā 'eiwa (9), wā 'umi (10), and 'umikūmākahi (11). They will begin with descriptions of birth cycles of sea creatures then flyers and eventually man and his environment.

Papahulihonua will touch on the first few lines of wā 'ekahi - 'ekolu and inspect the setting up of earth formations for nesting and birthing zones. Then they will take you to wā 'ewalu - 'umikūmākahi and pull out hydrology, eruptions, and preparation for life forms.

Papahulilani begins as Papahulihonua, touching upon the relationship of earth preparation with the earth's atmosphere and the affect mentioned in wā 'ewalu - 'umikūmākahi. Papahulilani will touch upon wā 'umikūmāhā which is Papahulilani and Wākea star connections.

It will be fun, I promise. In order to familiarize yourself with the textual movement of Papakū Makawalu January, acquire a Kumulipo book and read through the wā or chapters noted above (the chant only). This will help tremendously.
